DAILY TRIBUNE.

WRIGHT, MEDILL & CO., No. 51 CLARK STREET.

J. C. VAUGHAN, C. B. RAY, EDITORS.

CITY OF CHICAGO.

Friday Morning, ... March 7, 1856.

Election of Illinois Printers.

A memorial has been presented to Congress asking for the division of Minnesota Territory, on the parallel of 45 deg. 10 min., from the St. Croix to the Missouri. Minnesota at present is equal to four States the size of Iowa, and more than equal to five times the size of Indiana.

Minnesota will shortly apply for admission into the Union, and it should now be divided, because unless the Territory is previously divided, the convention for the formation of that Constitution must be composed of representatives from a large portion of the Territory which will not be included within the State; representatives would be participating in the the adoption of a Constitution that they will have no expectation of being subjected to. This would be injustice to the people of the State.

Some may urge as an objection that the Northern part of the Territory is too barren and inhospitable to be inhabited. But this is an error. Experience shows that the north of the line of the Hudson's Bay Company, whose is grown in as great abundance in comparison to the amount of land cultivated, and is a much surer crop than in Wisconsin or Illinois. Nature has provided for agriculture in all parts of the Territory, but in the southern portions, other pursuits than that of agriculture will lead to a rapid settlement. The mineral and lumbering interests of the north will fill it with a dense population within a very few years.

Kansas Reading in Milwaukee.

A great Kansas Aid meeting was held yesterday in Milwaukee. The call says "its object needs no raising nor soul music; its readiness to aid the people of Kansas, when necessary, argues that such assistance should be rendered, and to give a full expression to the prevailing sentiment of the State. The people of the State are invited to unite in the demonstration, and to send delegates to the same."

The call was signed by 500 of the leading citizens of Milwaukee, one-third of whom are Germans, and has been generally responded to in the State.

☞ A new paper has been started at Tiskilwa called the Independent, by G. L. Hare. It is a neat little sheet. Tiskilwa is an active business point, on Bureau Creek, six miles from Princeton, the county seat of Bureau county, and nine miles west of the junction of the Bureau Valley extension, of the Chicago and Rock Island Railroad, and on the Chicago and Rock Island Road. The population is about seven hundred.

The business establishments consist of six dry goods stores, six grocery stores, two drug stores and one furniture store. Two hotels, with several private boarding houses. There are two wagon shops, two blacksmith shops, one cooper's shop, seven carpenters and shops, and two saw mills. There are two large grist mills in view of the village.

THE ALIENS AND THE TURKS.—Kossuth thinks that the Turks have suffered more from France and England than from Russia, and that the peace will be more injurious to the Ottoman Empire than the war. He points to the recent negotiations to show that the Sea of Azoff is to be left to the Russians, and he says that the guaranty of the integrity of Turkey is to be dropped, and that Turkey is to be disarmed. On the last point he says:

"The third fact is, that in the former negotiations of Vienna the ambassadors of Turkey disband her military arsenals; now she has been placed under the lead of such a stipulation, as if she were naked when her neighbor she would consent to it. This is no trifling circumstance. Indeed, Turks, Bosnjaks, Bourgas, Circassians, &c., did rather the hilary, while Europe hoped Nicolaieff intact, and the Sea of Azoff unfortified. It is as if the war had been conducted against Turkey, and not for her, and had to be concluded in favor of Russia."

Kossuth charges, also, that for some time Napoleon has been in secret negotiation with Russia; and he attributes to this the pause of operations after the fall of Sevastopol (when the whole Russian force might have been swept from the Crimea,) the impediments thrown in the way of Omer Pasha, the capture of Odessa, and the still languishing of Kars.

Murder in Toledo.

On Sunday night last, a man named C. Dickenson was murdered at the house of Augustus Pittenburg, on Erie street, Toledo. Dickenson is said to have been a steady and hard working young man, and by his death, his aged mother is deprived of her only means of support. He was trying to get into Pittenburg's grocery, the company with a friend, when some high words passed between the Dutchman and Dickenson, and the latter left for home, but was followed and shot at, and mortally stabbed. Three persons are arrested and in jail, charged with the murder.

Illinois Teacher.

The first number of the 2d volume of this publication has just come to hand, and is worthy the name it assumes. It is a credit to the State it represents. We have at last a common school journal of which the friends of popular education may be proud. Ably edited by an accomplished teacher, and gotten up in a fashionable style, it presents a claim to the patronage of the citizens of Illinois with no ordinary force, and we greatly misjudge the character of our people if they do not give it a warm welcome and a wide circulation. Mechanically it is finished, and we trust that it will be the especial pride of the publishers not to be outdone by any monthly in America.

This magazine would be an ornament to any centre table in Illinois.

The articles in the present number are, "The Purpose of Education," giving a clear view of the matter, but grasping it with the grip of a master, and showing in a "nut-shell" the real end of study; "Schools of the Olden Time," a poem which most people will read twice; "That Dreadful Word," a good story; "Parental Co-operation," which will bear a good deal of consideration; two or three snatches of poetry; "Graded Schools," "Moral Teachings," Notices of Institutes, Reviews of Books, and the "Editor's Table." This latter is full of items of intelligence, suggestions, anecdotes, personal notes and so on. We should regret that teacher who does not send in the dollar for this publication an unwise, and that family which economize to do without it as not fully posted concerning its best interests.

One thing more; it should be placed in every school district in the State, for the benefit of the neighborhood, and as a work of reference. Questions are constantly arising in and about schools both with teachers and people, which a good educational journal would settle at once, or at least direct one how to go upon. Persons, Parents and several other questions have already moved in this matter. Let the rest follow. The Teacher will the cause it advocates have our warmest and best wishes. May both live!

Published monthly, at Peoria, by C. R. Hovey, for one dollar per year.

New Bedford Catching Gudgeon.

It is said the Dark Lantern fellows calculate in making the Dutch fix this way:

FOR PRESIDENT,
ANDREW JACKSON
Anti-Masonic, but they can't come it on the Germans, Irishmen, or any foreigners this time. Jack's "Anti-Masonry" are too fair—Cincinnati Union Flyer Junior.

Removal of Prices.

The N. Y. State Register, the K. N. organ, describes the process by which Fillmore and Haven obtained admission into the K. N. order. It says:

They were initiated in the presence of two or three dozen friends in private parlors or libraries, from which their lips were to remain sealed; and they never were to enter a council, if the party were defeated, they could repudiate it; if it was successful, they could come in, and would grasp the spoils of victory with the rest. These parlor-councils had this advantage over all others: they were in communion with friends on the inside, and were kept from whatever there was of odium on the outside. Their proceedings, formerly the Medical College, midst of darkness by the lights of the Astor Library, and the supper, at some regarded it, or entered the tavern themselves.

Lands Reserved or Offered.—The receipts of customs at New York, on Tuesday, were larger than ever before known in all that or any other port of the United States. $413,500 were deposited in the Sub-Treasury, and the Assistant Treasurer pays $475,000. The simultaneous entries by three sharpers, the Gilmores, Adams' Express, cannot these large payments.

Fresh and Odorous Hallibut.—The fish is declared to Elmwood and the cars are soon to run regularly to that station. The Company have just received two splendid locomotives.

New Books.

THE ATHENIAN (a warning), or, SECTIONS OF THE HISTORY OF GREECE, B. C. 500-449. From the Text of Dr. Arnold. By ALEXANDER C. KINNEY. 1856.

S. C. Griggs, & Co., No. 111 Lake street, have on with a volume of the above title. It is a pilgrimage and political narrative of the rambles of an attache at Madrid during the late troubles that agitated Spain. The pretence that it is translated from the German is only a device—one that will not delude the careful reader, who will see at a glance that the writer claims an American or English paternity. We have spent an hour or two over the volume and though we find it too much a record of fete and festivities, for the delectation of our democratic tastes, we must confess that we read on without interruption until we reached the end. The pictures of the Spanish grandees, Spanish manners, and Spanish morals, are more favorable than that of most of other writers; but perhaps not more favorable than truth demands.

THE PRINCIPLES OF METAPHYSICAL AND ETHICAL SCIENCE APPLIED TO THE EVIDENCES OF RELIGION. A new edition, revised and enlarged, by the author of Cousin." By FRANCIS BOWEN, A. M., Alford Professor of Moral Philosophy and Logic in Harvard University.

This book is composed of the materials of two courses of Lowell Lectures delivered by Prof. Bowen, in Boston, in 1848-9. It may be regarded as a clever presentation of the style of philosophizing on the Evidences of Religion which has long prevailed in England, and for the introduction of which other lecturers to our American Colleges. Indeed, Mr. Bowen makes only the humble pretension of supplying an imperfect supplement to the invaluable treatises of Dr. Butler and Dr. Paley; and applies their style and method to the refutation of systems of unbelief which have originated since their day.

In former days we remember having tried industriously to satisfy our cravings for new light on the great theme of Religious Evidence by delving at the books offered by this Professor; and our ill success then quite undermined our confidence in his ability to meet the scepticism of the present day. Prof. Bowen is a widely read man, a good master of the smaller kinds of logical fence, and seldom worries the brain of his reader by abstruse or misty speculation; but the grand want of his mind seems to us to be the incompetence to perceive the grand central facts of any topic he meddles with. He wrote about the Hungarian Revolution in a simplicity unconsciousness of the fate of Hungary. He writes of Religious Evidences with the same insensibility to Religion. A general habit of looking at all things according to their superficial and minor logical relations, and failing to grasp their radical ideas by the laws of their development, is a fatal hindrance to his success in the higher walks of thought.

Besides this special incapacity in the advocate, we must be old-fashioned enough to express our entire dissent from the method of treating Religious Evidences of which Prof. Bowen is the type. It seems to us more chopping and small generalities to go to work because the tremendous radical questions that now agitate the theological world by the help of the surface distinctions of the great body of English writers on Christian Evidences. The very philosophy implied in the terms Natural and Revealed Religion, has in our estimation done more damage to the cause of Religion than all he infidels. The grand question about which the cultivated intellect of our age is toiling is whether man is not naturally a religious being. If this be established that the grand fundamental facts of religion are a part of his soul; that growth into manhood is growth under their lead; that Christianity is the utterance of the most profound human consciousness and the highest form of the religious sentiment; then we have a science of Religion on which the best mind of our age can repose. The method we are considering confesses this ability of the soul up to a certain arbitrary point; beyond this it is denied in an equally arbitrary manner—a denial that seems to us to have its origin in a very human instinct shrinks back with loathing.

Of course, with such sentiments, the Observer will deem us without the pale of Christ, and refuses to support the candidate standing thereon—a method of proceeding that all "Americans" who are honest in their Anti-Slavery professions can but imitate.

The French.

What a queer people are the French! They are equally solid and brilliant—do everything thoroughly, yet evince the most exquisite taste and delicacy. We are wont to speak of them as superficial; yet where do you find profounder scholars than in Furnce, or workmen who understand better the rules and principles of their art?

Looking at this lively and chattering people, one is almost ready to overcome his prejudices against Sir-eigns are mostly shallow dogs—that it is only your gay and frivolous fellows that are deep! No people have quicker or keener perceptions; none more decisive in their acts. Before you discover everything which they investigate. They are equally skilled in cards and chess, and in marshalling battalions on a battle-field; they are alike at home in calculating the revolutions of planets in their orbits, or in cutting figures which is a ball-room. They have their La Place and their Lablanc they are alike unrivalled in filagree and in mathematics. It is Paris that is foremost in learned monkeys and learned Cuviers; Paris that furnishes us with our bonnets and our shoes; although Paris also sends us our latest styles of fancy goods, our latest fashions in dress. Our concoaks ape the Parisian manners; our novelists steal the French writers' plots; our Generals book from Turenne and Napoleon; and our Sir Roger Sniffs once said of Lord John Russell, that he was ready, at a moment's notice, to go up in a balloon, to perform an operation for cataract, or to take command of the Channel fleet. But a Frenchman's genius is a thousand times more versatile; in no ordinary shape, however, do we meet a new sup that will make an epicure scream with joy, solve an enigma that would have puzzled the Sphynx, and carry a Malakoff tower by a coup de main.

To descend to the trifles with equal gusto and facility; he chuckles with equal zest at finishing a toy to his mind, and in going to a new science its crowning perfection. He is the gayest man in the globe, and the liveliest to send a pistol-ball through his own brain; the most fickle and the most constant; the politest of men and the most irascible; the devoutest, and the most atheistic; a friend whom you shall win with a feather, and lose with a straw; the most pregnant of talkers, and the most silent; no orator as he Demme side of Lady Cant, can glide or come "from preliminary to sine ulti," or, as Dr Quincey said of Bishop Berkeley, "pass with the utmost ease and speed from tar-water to the Trinity, from a mole-heap to the thrones of the Godhead." He will wear, without shame, the neediest clothes, yet stop in the street before a looking-glass to curl his moustache and adjust his cravat; he will fight like a tiger for a republic, yet lie meek as a spaniel under an empire. "The least distastic that can be," says Peter Heylin, "drawech his sword, and, in a minute' pause, sheathith it in your body; otherwise, if you beat him into better manners, he shall take it kindly, and cry 'Serviteur.'"

In short, a Frenchman is a compound of paradoxes; a harmony of differences; a being born under the combining influences of Mercury and Saturn. "Nature formed but one such man, and broke the die in moulding him"—a Frenchman. There is but one thing which a Frenchman cannot learn to do well, and that is—to govern, and to preserve liberty.

Harmon Doctrine.

EXTRACTS FROM THE OF BRIGHAM YOUNG'S SERMON.

Among the multitude of our exchange papers from all parts of Christendom, we look always with keen eyes for the Deseret News, the organ of Mormonism, the faithful chronicler of events at Great Salt Lake, the exponent of the opinions and the defender of the practices of the Latter Day Saints. Every number has some new revelation of human equability and of human ignorance; and we read all that this mail brings us with the same curiosity that we would go through a new volume of ethical philosophy wherein all our preconceived notions were divided and all the truths that we have learned to swear by, were treated as radical and dangerous errors.

We have a copy of the News for Nov. 14th, and in it we find a sermon by Brigham Young that touches the tender point in the Mormon creed; and for the purpose of giving our readers an idea of the line of argument adopted to defend Polygamy, which all Christendom regards as monstrous, we copy, without comment, such paragraphs as most clearly announce what Mormons believe. Brigham opens a discourse at the Provo Conference, thus:

"I have a few words to say concerning one item of doctrine that I seldom think of mentioning before a public congregation; I refer to the doctrine pertaining to making up a royal priesthood, or, in the name of Israel's God, for which purpose the revelation was given to Joseph concerning the right of faithful Elders in taking to themselves more than one wife. I frequently hear from others that this doctrine is laughed at and ridiculed by a large portion of its being laughed out of doors, even jeered and sneered out of a Bishop's house.

* * * *

God never introduced the Patriarchal order of marriage with a view to please man in his carnal desires, nor to gratify females for anything which they had done, but he introduced it for the express purpose of raising up to his name a royal priesthood, a peculiar people.

Suppose that I had had the privilege of having only one wife, I should have had only three sons; for those are all that my first wife bore, whereas I now have buried five sons and have 13 living.

It is obvious that I could not have been blessed with such a family if I had been restricted to one wife, but by the introduction of this law I can be the instrument in preparing tabernacles for those spirits which have to come in this dispensation.

* * * *

The spirits which are reserved have to be born into the world, and the Lord will prepare some way for them to have tabernacles. Spirits must be born even if they have to come to brothels for their fleshly coverings, and many of them will take the lowest and meanest spirit house that there is in the world, rather than do without, and will say, "let me have a tabernacle that I may have a chance to be perfected."

The Lord has instituted this plan for a holy purpose, and not with a design to afflict or distress the people, hence an important and imperative duty is placed upon all holy men and women, and their reward will follow, for it is said that the children will add to our honor and glory.

* * * *

I foresaw, when Joseph first made known this doctrine, that it would be a trial, and a source of great anxiety to the feelings, and anxiety, and what of that! We are to gird up our loins and fulfill this, just as we would any other duty.

I think I have sufficiently urged by many that this doctrine was introduced through lust, but that is a gross misrepresentation.

There is a principle which God gave to Joseph, was for the express purpose of providing a channel for the organization of tabernacles for those spirits to come through, who have reserved to come forth in the kingdom of God, and that no man should be obliged to take tabernacles out of the kingdom of God.

We are commanded to overcome all our lustful desires, and purify our feelings and cultivate evil propensity that pertains to the flesh, to keep the commandments of God and all the commandments pertaining to the holy priesthood.

As far as my acquaintance extends, the brethren who have entered into this order with a pure heart, have enjoyed full as much worldly prosperity as they did before the prophet Joseph received it. They have not been obliged to raise up children by the Lord's Devil.

The Lord intended that our family cares should be greater, he knew they would be, yet he is able to bless us in proportion. I know quite a number of men in the country who do not take any more women, because they do not wish to take care of them; a contracted spirit which only has been given to take from others in my past life, who have said that they did not desire to have their wives bear any children, for fear of care; which circumstance prevent it; there are a few such persons in this church.

When I see a man in this church with those feelings, and hear him say, "I do not wish to enlarge my family, because it will bring care upon me," I conclude that he has more or less of the devil in him, and that he will go to hell if he does not understand the glory of the celestial kingdom.

I did not feel disposed, in my poverty, to enlarge my family and to build up the kingdom, I could not be acquainted with the difficulties of the path, neither should I be counted worthy to enjoy the blessings conferred upon those who obey this law.

This should be the view taken of this matter by the whole of this people, and, when a man, or woman sees that this principle should be introduced among the Latter Day Saints, they should ponder their responsibilities.

It is not through lust, that men and women are to practice this doctrine, but it is to be observed upon righteous principles; and if men and women would pay attention to those instructions, I would promise, in the name of the Lord, that you would never feel to murmur in your dispositions and you might watch them as closely as you please.

Plurality of wives is not designed to afflict you nor me, but it is purposed for our exaltation in the kingdoms of God. If any man had asked me what was my choice when Joseph revealed that doctrine, provided that it would not diminish my glory, I would have said, "let me have but one wife," not because it is not a great comfort to me to have children, but if I have not children I know them not.

Some of these my brethren know what my feelings were at the time Joseph revealed the doctrine; I was not desirous of shrinking from my duty nor of falling in the boat to do as I was commanded, but it was the first time in my life that I had desired the power, but could hardly get over it for a long time. And when I saw a funeral I felt to envy the corpse its situation, and to regret that I was not in it, knowing the toil and labor that my body would have to undergo; and I have had to exercise myself over that many times since, and with my faith and carefully meditate, lest I should be found desiring the grave more than I ought to do.

You will probably wonder at this, and that such should have been my feelings upon this point, but they were so.

Now if any of you will deny the plurality of wives and continue to do so, I promise that you will be damned; and I will go further and say, take this revelation, or any other revelation of the Lord that you are given, and deny it in your feelings, and I promise that you will be damned.

MACAULAY'S HISTORY.—The London correspondent of the National Intelligencer states that Mr. Macaulay's fifth volume is now in press, and says that the preparation of a new edition of the third and fourth volumes of his history is supposed to have originated the rumor.

FAILURE OF CAPTAIN M. CLAY.—The Louisville Courier of yesterday morning contains the following paragraphs:

A correspondent writing from Lexington, under yesterday's date, advises us of the failure of Capt. Cassius M. Clay. His assignees are his brother Brutus H. Clay, and M. C. Johnson, Esq., of Lexington.

For several years past Mr. Clay has been a large speculator in hogs, and to the recent heavy decline in hog products, we presume, may be attributed his unfortunate failure.

FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE.—We are informed that the necessary documents have been forwarded to Gov. Gano, at Columbus, respecting the criminal act of Margaret Garner, adjudged to be the slave of Mr. Gaines, for him to make a requisition upon the Governor of Kentucky for the surrender of the woman as a fugitive from justice.—*Cin. WHO WRITES THE LETTERS?—By statistics of postal matters we gather the following facts:—In proportion to population, the Irish write most; in the United States, 7; in Prussia, 2½; in Belgium, 3½; in France, 3; in Austria 19-20; in Russia 17-20. A Russian person in London sends 41; in New York, 23. London, Manchester, Birmingham, Bristol, Preston, Liverpool, Leeds and Glasgow each have four millions of inhabitants. NEW YORK, March 6.

The Washington correspondent of the Commercial Advertiser says in his letter of Wednesday, renders it almost certain that we owe as the late Nicaraguanian decree sanctning the Mosquito territory and the outrages on Mr. Wheeler, that commanders of the British vessels of war of the West India station will interfere to prevent it.

TERRIBLE CRASH IN PHILADELPHIA.—The Philadelphia Bulletin, of the 28th, has a full and circumstantial account of the falling of a large warehouse, four stories high, thirty-five feet wide and one hundred and seventy feet deep, situated at No. 365 Market street. The building was owned and occupied by Busby & Co., and was filled in every part with flour, grain in bulk, salt and other produce.

All the interior of the building, with the exception of about forty feet in front, came down in a heap of ruins, which rested on the first floor. The eastern wall fell upon the party wall of the adjoining building, and the western wall fell upon the back building of the dry goods store and dwelling of John Taggart, next door but one above the warehouse. A domestic, named Margaret Widger, was in the kitchen sewing at the time, and was covered by the rubbish; but she providentially escaped with a few bruises.

The accident is attributed to the giving way of the floors from the vast quantity of goods stored in the upper stories. The walls, which appeared to be very substantial, was erected about two and a half years ago.

LATER.—THE HOURS NOT YET REACHED.

We have again visited the scene of the disaster in Market street, and up to 2 o'clock, the time we write this upon the spot, the bodies of the three men who are still under the ruins had not been reached.

The names of the men are Joseph Miller, carpenter; Martin Donahow and Joseph Crowley, laborers. These, in addition to Timothy Murphy, who was killed in the factory next door, make the number of persons who thus have lost their lives four.

The proprietors think the damage to the stock in the warehouse will not exceed $2,000, while the loss on the building itself will probably be about $5,000.

LAWRENCE, Kansas, Feb. 20, 1856.

Night before last, Sam Lathus, who assumes to act as Sheriff of Douglas County" when Jones is absent, proceeded to Hickory Point with about twenty men, to arrest Mr. Branson, who was rescued from Jones' custody on the night of the 20th of November last.) But some free State men, neighbors of Mr. B. got wind of the intended arrest about 3 o'clock yesterday morning. They rallied immediately at the house of Mr. B., and prevented by their presence the contemplated arrest. Lathe with his posse came to the conclusion that it was best under the circumstances for them to quietly retire without having accomplished their object. Mr. Branson came into this city yesterday, where he is now. No one is yet advised whether or not Lathe will call upon his posse to go to Lafalo and Erie might be cleared by morning if the wind would go down. Weather still stormy here.

LATEST NEWS.

BY TELEGRAPH AND MAILS.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, March 6.

SENATE.—Mr. Brown introduced a bill for the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from a point on the Mississippi South of latitude 37 to the Pacific at San Francisco. The bill grants about 4,000,000 acres of land for which the Company pay 50 cents per acre before obtaining a title and are required to deposite $50,000 as security that the work shall be faithfully performed according to the provisions of the bill, within eighteen months, one hundred miles of the road must be completed and the government to pay $800 per mile for carrying the mail till the road is finished and for ten years thereafter, and for such reasonable sum as the Secretary of War may determine for carrying troops, munitions of war &c., the road is to be fortified within ten years, and all lands except those paid to revert to the United States.

The bill grants the right of way 400 yards wide, gives no exclusive privilege, but allows any company to construct roads when and where they please and obtain such bounty from Government as they can. Referred to Com. on Pacific Railroad.

Mr. Weller said the Committee would endeavor to report next week.

The Fortification Bill was then considered.

The Senate passed the bill granting land, and the bill providing for new fortifications was postponed.

Mr. Seamer's proposition directing the committee on foreign relations to consider the expediency of some act of legislation to effectively abrogate the treaty with Denmark, and repeal the payment of the sound dues, was then considered and passed, and the Senate adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE.—The request of the committee on elections for power to send for persons and papers in the Kansas contested election case, was considered. A long discussion ensued as to whether it were better to have the persons and papers brought from Kansas, or empower the committee to proceed to Kansas and take testimony on the ground. Without coming to any conclusion the House adjourned.

Washington Items—Bid at Columbia College.

New York, March 6.

The correspondent of the Herald telegraphs that dispatches brought by the Asiatic steamer received at the State Department yesterday. There was nothing decisive in them, notwithstanding thirty-six months that they are belligerent in tone.

An effort is being made by Southern Americans to start a new candidate for the Presidency.

The Tribune correspondent says, the Stephens' mission to report on the Kansas election case, is still fully drawn.

It is in substance a demurrer, insisting that Congress has no right to look below the surface of the Kansas Legislature, but merely regard the Territorial Legislature as rightfully constituted, and its acts as valid laws. This being established, Whitfield is the legal delegate, no matter how many illegal votes were polled, and bloody contests occurred, as he, Whitfield, even pretend to have been voted for at the election ordered by the Legislature. The point is a purely legal one, and will be decided by the Supreme Court. Whitfield appended to and as a part of Mr. Stephens' report

South Carolina papers contain details of the recent terrible riot at Columbia College on the night of the 17th ult. A party of Students had had a grudge against the Chief of Police, made a murderous assault upon him in the street, badly injuring him. One of the Students had his sheath-knife taken from him, and conveyed by some of his friends to the guard-house, upon which an attack was soon made by some of the students armed with knives, clubs and pistols. The Chief was again badly beaten and stabbed, and was then thrown out of the second story window. The alarm bell was rung, and the citizens came together, when another conflict ensued. Six military companies were ordered out and were afterwards relieved by other guards around the guard-house and jail. One of the students has since died, and others are not expected to live. Bedell, the Chief, is said also to be dead. The excitement was kept up till the 18th, when the students were still threatening revenge, and being very active in procuring arms and ammunition. The Governor went to the College, demanded their arms, and succeeding in fire upon them if they refused to deliver them.

The students finally yielded and quiet was restored. Another account says the scene presented was such as Columbia never before saw; two hundred students with guns, loaded with ball cartridges, opposed to more than 100 enraged young men, with rifles in their hands. The order was given to take them by force, and would have followed had not Col. Goodwin and others thrown themselves between them and called on the citizens to disperse.

The Tribune's Washington correspondent states that positive information had been received that a regiment of 400 men had left New Orleans, Feb. 27th, in the Prometheus join Col. Walker, and that others were to follow.
